NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Mr. R. N. Anderson has purchased additional land on Woodland avenue from Miss Mary S. Ward.

There is a rumor that Mr. Wilde proposes to build several new houses on his highland Ridgewood avenue. It is to be hoped that it is true.

There is something the matter. Mr. Ryan the keeper of the Mansion House in Montclair, failed to get his license. What next?

The Christmas music at Westminster church was exceptionally good. It is greatly to be desired that the choir that left the singing be permanently retained.

The D. L. & W. R. R. is narrow gauge in its management if not in its tracks. Turkeys cannot hereafter ride on commutation tickets.

Mr. Robert S. Ridd is said to have purchased an additional tract of land from Mr. Edward S. Wilde, adjoining the residence of Mr. Ridd on Ridgewood avenue.

Mr. C. B. De La Vergne, who has occupied a house on Ridgewood avenue for upwards of a year past, has moved to Harlem. Mr. R. G. Thomas of Brooklyn has taken his house till spring.

The Glenridge Club House is rapidly approaching completion. The standing finish is going in and the club hopes to get into its quarters about the first of February.

The attempt to get a receiver appointed to take charge of the quarry operated by Mahony & Corby failed, the court refusing to interfere with the management of the quarry but appointing a receiver to take the rent. The quarry will be operated as in the past by Mahony & Corby.

The Essex Building and Loan Association should apply to the treasurer, Mr. C. L. Schmitt, before the third Tuesday in January. The stock now subscribed for amounts to about five hundred and fifty shares.

A scramble of the Young People's Social Union of the Baptist church was held at the residence of Mr. Willet, on Wednesday evening. A unique feature of the entertainment was the serving of apple dumplings by way of refreshment.

The monthly meeting of the Reform Club will be held in the lecture room of the Baptist church on Saturday evening at a quarter to eight o'clock. The public are cordially invited to be present. An interesting discussion is to take place on the divorce question.

Rev. Wayland Hoyt, D. D. of Philadelphia, read a paper before the New York Baptist Ministers Conference last Monday. In the last part of the paper he dealt upon the Apocalypse. By vote of the conference Rev. E. D. Simons was requested to prepare an essay in reply to Dr. Hoyt's position. The paper will be read "The place of the Apocalypse in the New Testament Canon."

St. Luke's Episcopal church at Watertown was crowded to its utmost capacity on Monday evening, the occasion being the Christmas entertainment of the children. The edifice was handsomely decorated with flowers and evergreens. The music, under the leadership of Mr. O'Brien, was well rendered. Every school child and teacher received a handsome present.

The Christmas entertainment of the Sunday school of the Baptist church, held on Christmas eve, consisted of the Cantata "Santa Claus' Mistake." The recitations and singing were exceptionally good. The principal parts were rendered by Mr. Charles Miller as Santa Claus, Miss Kate Robinson, Miss Carrie Farrington and Katie Fairbanks. Other exercises in which the infant class took part, were the Cantata. The children were served with Christmas refreshments.

The Bazaar which opened on Tuesday evening December 22d and closed on Christmas night in Catholic Union Hall was a great success. There were many prizes drawn, on the two last evenings. On Christmas night the contest for the diamond ring between five young ladies of the parish was brought to a close, Miss Mamie O'Brien becoming the fortunate possessor. There is a valuable set of vestments to be voted for on New Year's night between the parishes of Belleville, Bloomfield and Montclair.

The cantata "Santa Claus' Mistake," given at Westminster Chapel Christmas eve, attracted a large audience. Those present were delightfully entertained by a chorus admirably trained by Mrs. George W. Cook and Miss Agnes Gray. The character of Saint Nicholas was taken by Mr. Oscar Michell. [The chorus was led by Miss Michell, soprano, who also sang with pleasing effect a number of solos. The musical portion of the entertainment opened with a Kinder Symphony. After the conclusion of the cantata the children were each supplied with a remembrance of the evening, from a bountifully loaded Christmas tree. A portion of the platform was devoted to the reception of offerings from the children, to be sent to the scholars of the Point Pleasant Sunday-school. The Westminster Church Society has also donated a set of "Songs of the Church" to be used for regular services, and a set of Sunday-school books to the Point Pleasant Society.

The course adopted by the D. L. & W. R. R. Company in regard to commutation tickets is exciting considerable indignation and opposition among the patrons of the road. The new tickets issued for January have an agreement printed upon the back, which must be signed by the purchaser, who, in addition to the "last iron rule" heretofore enforced, must agree not to object if the company neglect to provide him with a seat, and moreover that his passage shall be "without baggage, goods or express matter." These latter restrictions are deemed to be the most odious, and as some of the more independent commuters declare that they will not sign such an agreement, trouble is anticipated, when the enforcement of the new rule is attempted.

At the annual meeting of the newly elected board of representatives of the Bloomfield Fireman's Relief Association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. Banks Reford (re-elected) president; Jessie I. Taylor, vice president; William B. Chambers, treasurer; Frank G. Tower, (re-elected) secretary. The board is constituted as follows: Frank G. Tower and John G. Zabriskie from Essex Hook and Ladder Company No. 1; J. Banks Reford and H. J. Sayre, from Phoenix Hose Company, No. 1; Wm. J. Coffman and James Foster and Active Hose Company, No. 2 and Adam Lind and Jessie I. Taylor from Excelsior Hose, No. 3. During the past year only one application for assistance has been received and the relief fund now amounts to $554.

New York and Greenwood Lake Railway.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 24th, 1885. MR. STEPHEN SMITH, Superintendent N. Y. & G. L. R. R.—Dear Sir:—Enclosed please find the annual contribution of the passengers upon your railroad as a Christmas offering to the conductors, engineers and trainmen, who have so successfully ministered to our wants, comfort, and safety. For at least five years it has been our good fortune to make the annual announcement that another year had passed without an accident of any kind to a passenger on the trains of your road. Permit us to tender to you and your associate officers our just appreciation of yourselves and your management, and the hope that the pleasant relations of the past may continue in the future.

Yours truly,
J. L. DOUGLASS,
A. E. VAN GIESSEN,
Special Committee.

Accompanying the above letter was a liberal contribution of money which was divided among the passenger trainmen as per request of the donors, making each a nice Christmas present.

The Ryan Case.

To The Citizens:—The facts of this case seem to be that Mr. Ryan's application for a hotel license in Montclair was opposed by the committee of one hundred on the ground that he had violated the Sunday law; that they proved their case to a certain extent, and that after the evidence was all in Mr. Ryan was allowed to withdraw his application. These seem to be the apparent facts. The N. Y. World has burrowed for motives and has thrown out a good deal of dirt in its search.

The only fact about the whole case worthy of notice is the action of the court in allowing the withdrawal of the application. The statute provides that a refusal to grant a license shall be final for one year. The effect of allowing a withdrawal is to permit an application to be made at the next term. Inasmuch as no applicant would withdraw unless pretty certain of defeat, it appears to be an attempt to evade the law, especially when the withdrawal is made after all the damaging testimony is in.

Whatever opinion one may hold as to the policy of opposing the best places and not the worst the law should be enforced until repealed.

A Handsome Fire House.

For some months Essex H. & L. Co., No. 1, have been making improvements in their house and they invite ladies and gentlemen who may be so inclined to visit the house and make an inspection. On entering one would fail to recognize the old house. The truck room, 60x16 ft., is finished in varnished cherry with a wainscot of ash and black walnut. Midway in the room on the right is a hydrant to be used for filling the fire extinguishers and cleaning apparatus. In the rear of the room are two marble basins with running water.

Eern shades cover the windows, and from a gilt moulding are suspended numerous pictures. A large self-feeding stove stands in the rear of the truck and prevents the extinguishers and force pump from freezing. The truck stands on an angle iron track, so pitched that on opening the front doors one man can easily run the truck, weighing upwards of 3,000 lbs., into the street.

Back of the truck room is the company meeting room, connected by large folding doors, covered by heavy portieres. A fine brown matting covers the floor and the room is heated by a small parlor stove. A handsome four-light gas fixture, with cut colored globes, is suspended from the ceiling, which is blue with a gold ornament in the centre. The walls are drab with a pretty frieze and gold moulding at the top. Maroon silk and jute lampshades cover the cardinal shades on the windows. Numerous pictures are on the walls and among them are framed likenesses of James H. Way, the first Foreman of the company, and of their loved member, John Chambers. In the rear of this room is the bell tower and fire alarm bell.

Christmas at Hope Sunday-school.

Santa Claus paid his respects to this outlying Mission-school on Wednesday evening. He came out of breath from his exertions in anticipating the season, but with plenty of boxes and bags for the children. These latter enjoyed the entertainment heartily, as did those of a larger growth in life. As usual every available inch of space was occupied, and a large number of visitors were obliged to stand near the door. For the enjoyment of all, recitations, dialogues, songs and a little Old Folks Concert were provided. Among the dialogues—"Playing Doctor," and "The Gypsy" were especially good. A dialogue in song entitled "Matrimonial Sweets," by Miss Fannie Madison and Master George Honess was greeted with hearty applause. The little Old Folks Concert began with Old Hundred and ended with Coronation but embraced some worldly songs, which were thoroughly enjoyed. A solo by Miss Maude Freeman, and "Down on the Swane River, sung by two colored children, were worthy of commendation. The whole entertainment was a decided hit, and suggested the query how so much can be prepared in so short a time. But then—the ladies did it.

The Rev. James M. Ludlow, D. D., who has been called to the pastorate of the pastorate of the Mynn Avenue Presbyterian Church, East Orange, occupied the pulpit of that church last Sunday. In closing his morning discourse Dr. Ludlow referred to the call and then spoke of the relation of the pastor and the people. He said it was the duty of the congregation to aid the pastor in the work of saving the souls other than their own: that the work of the pastor and people was of a missionary character; that they should look upon church work as work for the Master, and that the messages given from the pulpit should be regarded as paramount to the messenger and his manner of delivering it. "Now," he continued, "I think we fully understand each other, and if you will accept me with a determination to observe these principles, give me your hand." This acceptance of the call was received with great pleasure by the congregation and after the close of the service all pressed forward to grasp Dr. Ludlow's hand. It is expected that the new pastor will begin his work immediately and the installation will take place as soon as possible.

Daily Newspaper Enterprise.

(From the Orange Journal.)

The anxiety of certain New York morning papers to increase their circulation in New Jersey has led them to make unusual exertions to secure news from the suburbs of New York, and no section of the country is so thoroughly scoured for news and so effectively "done" as this part of New Jersey. So far, the enterprise of these New York papers is legitimate and proper enough, but in their efforts to secure news the hard driven New Jersey reporters of these enterprising papers use a grain of truth as the foundation for a mountain of sensational matter, fact is thrown to the winds and fancy supplies the material which the plain, sober truth lacks. There is an important consideration also which is always at the tip of the reporter's pencil and acts as a stimulus to his imagination and lends color and importance to the matter in hand, no matter how prosy and insignificant it may be,—we refer to the mighty dollar. These reporters, or most of them, are paid by a column and the more their paper prints the more they receive. The better the chances of their publication, and every additional line which the imagination paints, the greater the pay. Thus it is that a petty theft becomes a daring burglary of thousands of dollars, or the refusal of an employee to work in a factory, an immense turn out of all the hands, and a quiet, becoming wedding in ordinary circles a grand and brilliant wedding in high life and the social event of the season!

This style of reporting may catch the eye and suit the taste of a certain class, but it is weak, and the paper that depends on such reports will not add to its reputation or influence, and sooner or later the truth alone will be sought. Complaints are being made in various New Jersey cities of the gross exaggerations and even libels, which the World and Morning Journal are publishing as creditable New Jersey news, and it is time they ceased their stated publication of falsehoods about New Jersey matters. The time will come when New York papers will be convinced that it pays to print the truth and nothing but the truth.
